Capitol Bank Announces Two Promotions, Strengthening for Future Success.

Madison, WI (February 12, 2025): Capitol Bank is pleased to announce promotions for Nick Inman and Paige Janquart, which will further enhance the Bank's leadership team and position the Bank for future growth.

Nick Inman has been named SVP, Chief Credit Officer. Inman brings over 19 years of lending and credit experience to Capitol Bank as he assumes leadership of the Bank's credit function. In his two years with Capitol Bank, Nick has led several transition efforts to position the Bank for scalable growth while adding efficiencies. This change will allow for continued enhancement of the Bank's credit operations.

"Nick's expertise and dedication to the Bank have been evident since his arrival, and I'm pleased to have Nick at the helm of our credit department," said Justin Hart, CEO.

Paige Janquart has been named VP of Finance. Janquart, with 14 years of accounting and banking experience, has played an integral role in the Bank's accounting department prior to and since exceeding $500 million. In Janquart's new role, she will assume additional responsibilities overseeing the Accounting and Financing department.

"Paige has been an instrumental part of the Bank's accounting & finance functions. She exemplifies the Bank's mission and values and will continue to position the Bank for future success," said Ami Myrland, President and CFO.
