The QTI Group (QTI) is excited to announce leadership progression. Jay Loewi who joined QTI in 1989 will progress from CEO to Chairman; Londa Dewey who joined QTI in 2007 will progress from President to CEO, and Tara Conger, who joined QTI in 2017, will progress from COO of QTI Human Resources to President.

Tara brings extensive experience and a deep understanding of the complexities of human resources and is well-positioned to build on The QTI Group's 63-year history of growth and success! As COO of QTI's Professional Employer Organization (PEO) business, Tara led record growth through service and technology advances. Tara's diverse background includes over thirteen years of experience in strategic human resources roles, including Vice President of Human Resources at Palmer Johnson Power Systems, as well as experience in sales and marketing.

In addition to the President role, Tara will continue to lead QTI's PEO service offering. Tara states, "I am excited, humbled, and honored to lead the organization forward. We all have amazing roles and what we do makes a difference in the lives of the candidates we place, the organizations we help, and the communities we serve."

With QTI's new leadership, the strategy will evolve around thoughtfully preparing and positioning the company for continued growth and success. Londa Dewey states, "Together as leaders and as an organization, we have a shared purpose of helping organizations reach their full potential through people. The new decade is a great opportunity to create new energy and ensure we are well-aligned to provide the absolute best employee, candidate and client experience."

The QTI Group Chairman Jay Loewi states, "It is critical to prepare and evolve our capabilities to help our clients adapt, grow and succeed. This requires a strong leadership team to look into the future and deliver value through our capable QTI colleagues."
